From the Paris Gazette, dated Feb. 24.

Madrid, February 5.

THE 2d of this Month in the Night, the Queen had a new Fit of Indiſpoſition, which gave great Uneaſineſs to thoſe about her. The 3d in the Morning, the King himſelf acquainted her that ſhe was judged to be in very great Danger. About 3 in the Afternoon, Father Blanc a Dominican was ſent for; ſhe confeſſed her ſelf to him, and afterwards received the Sacrament publickly, from the Hands of the Patriarch of the Indies. Some time after, ſhe gave the King Power to make her Will for her. For that purpoſe were introduced into her Chamber, Signior Mendaroſqueta Preſident of the Council of Caſtile, their Majeſties two Majordomos, the Maquis de Mejorada, Don Manuel Badillo, and the two Confeſſors. The King would not be preſent to ſee the Will drawn up, but retired into the Apartment of the Princeſs Urſini. Since that time the Queen has found her ſelf ſomewhat relieved, and the Phyſicians give ſome Hopes of her Cure. The King has ſettled the Miniſters of his Council, who are to aſſemble every Day of the Week, to deliberate in his Preſence on divers Affais of the Monarchy. Letters from the Camp before Barcelona of the 24th of January, confirm the good Succeſſes which the Detachments ſent by the Duke de Popoli againſt the Rebels had had. The Count de Montemar with 1000 Foot and 1000 Horſe, marched to attack Caldes de Monbuy, where were 5000 of the Revolters. He forced the Place Sword in Hand, and cauſed it to be plundered and burnt, to the Number of 600 Houſes, ſparing only the Church. Then he marched towards Vich, where Don Feliciano de Bracamonte was inveſted by about 5000 Rebels, who hearing what had paſſed at Caldes de Monbuy betook themſelves to Flight. The Count de Montemar purſued them. At the ſame time the Count de Fiennes had advanced from Girone, with 15 Battallions and ſome Troops of Horſe, to ſurround the Rebels on that Side, and ſupport the Count de Montemar and Don Feliciano de Bracamonte, the Rebels having retired, and moſt of them having diſperſed themſelves for want of a Chief and of Union among themſelves. The Count de Montemar is gone after them towards the Luſſanes, where it ſeems the Rebellion began, in Order to approach Don Joſeph Vallejo who has 2500 Men, with whom he is in a Manner ſhut up towards Solſona. Don Diego Gonzales, who was detached with 800 Men at the ſame time as was the Count de Montemar, burnt the Village of St. Quentin, forced and burnt la Puebla, and continuing his March towards Igualeda, freed the Regiment of Horſe of Brabant inveſted there, and brought them off to Martorel. There he received Order to go and attack the Caſtles of Monbi and Corbera, which he did. At the Attack of the firſt were loſt, the Lieutenant-Collonel of the Regiment of Guadalaxara, a Captain, three other Officers, and ſome Soldiers: But the ſecond Caſtle was abandoned by the Rebels. He cauſed the Walls of thoſe two Caſtles to be blown up, and the 24th he marched towards Manreſa. In Order to ſtreighten the Rebels on all Sides, the Marquis de Thouy is forming in the Neighbourhood of Lerida, a Camp of 6000 Foot and 2000 Horſe, conſiſting of the Walloon Infantry come from the Netherlands, and of ſome Battallions and Squadrons of the Troops from Eſtremadura, which had ſtopped on the Frontiers of Caſtile and Arragon. We have received Letters from Tarragona of the 26th of January, adviſing, that Don Diego Gonzales was attacking a Body of the Rebels who had retired into the Caſtle of Calſtelvich, and that he had ſet Men to make a Mine to blow it up. The Fleet which had ſailed from Tarragona, for Barcelona, had been obliged by contrary Winds to put back to the Road of Salo, where they were joyned by a great Convoy from the Mouth of the Ebro, and would ſail again the firſt fair Wind. The Night between the 23d and 24th, the King Philip, one of his Majeſty's Men of War, took a Catalonian Veſſel, returning from Italy to Barcelona, whoſe Lading conſiſting of Groceries, Wines, Salted Fleſh and other Proviſions, is valued at 60000 Crowns. A great Number of Deſerters came out of Barcelona, and even intire Families who retired elſewhere for fear of the Siege, and becauſe of the Scarcity of all ſorts of Proviſions.

From the Paris Letter, dated Feb. 20.

Paris, Feb. 20. 'Tis adviſed from Madrid, that the King has made a new Change in the Royal Council for Affairs of State, of War, thoſe relating to his naval Strength at Sea, and to the Adminiſtration of Juſtice. This Council is to meet 4 times a Week, and Cardinal Giudice, the Count de Bergeik, the Marquis de Bedmar, and Monſieur Orri, are the Chiefs under the King. Letters from Catalonia of the 3d relate, that the Spaniſh Squadron was arrived at Mataro, and was landing Troops and Proviſions there, that Place being choſen for the Magazines of the Army and of the Siege, which was to be begun aſſoon as M. du Caſſe ſhould have joyned the ſaid Squadron. The Rebels were followed very vigorouſly; and the King's Troops having retaken Saint Paul, of which the Rebels were poſſeſſed, theſe had returned to the Charge to recover it; but in vain. No Quarter is given to any Perſon who is found in Arms; and all the Places which make Reſiſtance are plundered and burnt; many have been already burnt, particularly towards Cardona, where 70 or 80 Rebels have been killed. 'Tis adviſed from Strasbourg the 10th, that the Marſhal de Villars had been there ſince the 6th, taking the Diverſions of the Carnival, and that there was Gaming and a Ball every Night at his Quarters. They write from Bar le Duc the 16th, that the Chevalier de St. George returned thither the 15th from Luneville, where he had paſſed the Carnival with their Royal Highneſſes of Lorrain. M. de la Faye arrived at Verſailles 4 Days ago from London, to give the King an Account of Her Britannick Majeſty's having recovered a better State of Health.

From the Paris Letter, dated Feb. 24.

Paris, Feb. 24. The Queen Dowager at St. Germain is ſomewhat better than ſhe was the laſt Week. An extraordinary Courier has brought an Account, that the Queen of Spain died the 14th Inſtant. Letters from Girone of the 10th, tell us the Count de Montemar had joyned Don Joſeph Vallejo, and put to the Sword 400 Men who ſallied out of the Caſtle of Cardona to joyn the Rebels whom he had driven out of the Neighbourhood of Martorel; and that a Ship which put into Roſes the 8th reported, that two of the King's Frigates meeting ſeveral Veſſels laden with Corn which the Merchants of Leghorne had ſent to be ſold at Barcelona, had obliged them to go and diſpoſe of it at Toulon; and that the Squadron had taken in the Heighth of Barcelona and carried to Mataro ſeveral others laden with Corn likewiſe, which the Rebels had cauſed to be bought for them in the Iſland of Corſica. It appears by Letters from Strasbourg of the 15th and by others from Lorrain of the 16th that 'twas not doubted there the Peace is made, at leaſt as to the main Articles; for they tell us they were inform'd, that the Couriers whom the two Generals had diſpatched to Vienna and Verſailles before they ſeparated, were ſent with the Treaty concluded between them, and that they ſtaid only before they meet again, for the Return of the two Couriers with the Ratification tification of the Treaty, which is said to be to the Satisfaction of both Courts, though it be more glorious to the King than to the Archduke, and more advantagious to France than to the Empire. 'Tis not known yet whether the two Generals are to meet again at Raſtad or at ſome other Place; but 'tis believed the Meeting will be with the Deputies or Subdelegates of all the Princes of the Empire, for regulating their Pretentions to the Satisfaction of every one of them. Mean while Preparations for another Campaign are making on both Sides; and a great Train of Artillery is providing at Metz, ſaid to be deſigned for the Siege of Trarbach.

Dublin, Feb. 9. A Commencement being held this Day in Trinity College, ſeveral of the Students were prepared to take their Degrees, but were diſappointed, for ſeveral of the Graduates and Non-Reſident Maſters of Arts having made a Motion to the Vice-Chancellor, the Archbiſhop of Tuam, that the Sentence of Forbes's degradation might be read before any publick Buſineſs ſhould be gone upon; the Archbiſhop was for having the ſame read as they propoſed, but it being believed that the reading of it was in order to have an Act obtained to repeal the ſaid Sentence, the Vice-Provoſt and the Senior Fellows of the College oppoſed its being read, and by withdrawing themſelves prevented the Aſſembly from proceeding further in that Affair; whereupon the Commencement has been adjourned to the 12th Inſtant.

Whereas a SCHEME was lately propoſed to the Corporation of the Amicable Society, not only to leſſen but to take off their Yearly Payments of 6 l. 4 s. in 7 Years. The ſame proving contrary to their Charter, cou'd not be made uſe of, although great Advantages wou'd have been had thereby, and therefore ſeveral Members of that Society have encouraged the Proprietor to form a new Society of the ſame Number, according to the ſaid Scheme, which divides 10000 l. yearly, or 100 l. to every Claimant on the Death of a Nominee. A Subſcriber is to pay 5 s. Entrance, and 4 l. per Ann. for 7 Years, and a Yearly Rebate of 4 l. on every Policy, to be deducted when a Claim is received. This Society is to commence the 10th of June next, and a Book for Subſcriptions will be opened the 10th of March at Owen's Coffee-houſe at Simond's-Inn in Chancery-lane.
